Session 1: Human capital, inequalities and technological change

- How can labour market institutions be adapted to better address rising inequality and increase adaptability to technological change?
- Which EU level interventions could prompt national level reforms?

Session 2: New forms of employment, working conditions and labour market transitions

- Are you aware of innovative approaches in the area of new forms of employment that address some of the challenges identified (such as the asymmetric treatment of the atypically employed or the need for upskilling)?
- How do you see the possible venues of implementation for the various policy options (such as employability assessment or extending coverage to the atypically employed) raised during the consultation? What would be the European level added-value?

Session 3: Social protection reform

Effectively addressing asymmetries between forms of employment, inequality and poverty

- How can social protection systems be effectively adapted to social trends such as the increase in poverty, inequality and family diversity all in a context of population ageing?
- How should social protection be adjusted in view of the growth in non-standard employment and in labour market transitions? Which EU level interventions could add value in this adjustment?
